

Biography

Myrna J. Bentley

Myrna Bentley is the President and Chief Executive Officer of Co-operative Trust Company of Canada. Co-operative Trust is a federally regulated trust company operating across Canada. The Company is owned by Canadian Credit Union/Co-operative Financial Service organizations. Co-operative Trust provides corporate and personal trust services to credit unions and their members.

Myrna progressed through the Company holding various positions over the span of more than 25 years including the Executive Management positions of Vice-President, Mortgage Services, Vice-President Products and Services and Vice-President Business Development. Throughout her career, Myrna has maintained a consistent high standard of performance and a clear vision for the future.

Myrna currently serves on the Board of Governors of CIMBL (Canadian Institute of Mortgage Brokers and Lenders). She serves as a representative of Credit Union Central of Canada to the Board of Credential Group and Credit Union Electronic Transaction Services (CUETS).

Myrna is an active community volunteer and has served a number of not-for-profit organizations. The most current are the Canadian Institute of Society and Humanity and the Western Development Museum Centenary Celebration.

Myrna has received accreditation from the University of Saskatchewan, The Trust Companies Association, Canadian Securities Institute, the Co-operative College of Canada, and the Canadian Management Association.

Myrna is married to Brian who is Assistant Fire Chief with Saskatoon Fire and Protective Services. They have one daughter Meaghan – the “sunshine” of their life.