Rex Hagon is President and founder of Rex Hagon & Associates. : a firm established in 1985, to provide strategic and practical communications advice to corporations and business leaders.

RHA provides strategic, practical advice concerning verbal communications, and as well assists clients in the development and delivery of key corporate messages.

Rex's grasp of business issues, facilitation skills, and knowledge of communication principles, has resulted in successful product and new business initiatives, improved media relations, constructive employee negotiations, and sales team effectiveness.

Rex Hagon & Associates works from the premise that its clients are already good communicators and capable of expressing their creative concepts, ideas and corporate strategies with integrity and confidence.

They also are experienced enough in business communications to be aware of their own competencies. Whatever level of communication expertise a client is at, RHA guarantees to encourage them to a higher one.
